West Virginia.

West Virginia is 50 years old today and while the State is not as old as States bordering, she is recognized throughout the Nation on account of her vast resources and excellent men that have represented her in national affairs as one of the strongest states in the Union.

West Virginia was formed from Virginia, her people remaining loyal to the Union cause during the war between the states, and naturally enough the top of Allegheny mountain was made the dividing line and while there were a few unwilling separatists from the old state at the time, the greater the top of Allegheny mountain was made the dividing line and while there were a few unwilling separatists from the old state at the time, the greater majority are now glad of the change as the old state government was entirely too unwieldy on account of its vast territory, and naturally enough the mountain section being adapted to mining and manufacturing could not be governed so well from the Richmond agricultural section. On the whole the division was a natural one had there been no war. from the Richmond agricultural section. On the whole the division was a natural one had there been no war. West Virginia ores are still practically untouched and many new industries are still to be opened affording a great field of investment. This fact has been aroused abroad and during the last 20 years thousand of young men from adjoining states have sought homes in this state, capital has sought investment and with it has come railroads, mills, mining industries and development of all kinds, so at the present time trainloads of finished and raw material can be seen daily moving out of the state in all directions to the markets of the world. West Virginia have a right to be proud of their state which is

An Important Truth.

Governor Hatfield's letter to the Congressional Investigating Committee declining to lay before the committee the record of trials by the military courts, brings out a point which the sensationalists and muck-rakers who have been attacking the State administration have seen fit to ignore. That is, not a single one of the findings of the military courts have been approved by the Governor of West Virginia, who is himself the commander-in-chief of the military forces, and not a single one of the prisoners tried by the military courts is a

How different this plain statement of facts from the sensational publications which have alleged that men and women have been summarily tried by a drum-head court martial, thrown into prison and sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary. No such sentences have been inflicted, and no prisoner is serving such a sentence. The simple truth reveals the utter insincerity of a great part of the false and exaggerated statements that have been made concerning the West Virginia mine situation.—

The renewal of the strike on Cabin and Paint Creek in Kanawha County, is believed to have been due to the present Senatorial investigation and no doubt many lives will be lost before the matter is again settled. The Democratic leaders at Washington are making great efforts to keep the pot hot. Through the personal efforts of Governor Hatfield the matters in difference had been amicably adjusted but the influence of out side agencies have been brought to bear and about the only solution will be for an open declaration of war to settle the matter.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

What Will You Do About It?

Every well organized and well equipped college is conducting a fourth term, or summer school. Three or four months is too much time for students and teachers to waste. In the Summer School most of the regular courses are offered, some twice a day, six days in a week. For teachers the Summer School is the only chance. It furnishes an excellent opportunity to those who are ambitious to be advanced, especially to those who are striving by means of the Summer School to get credits on college work. This can be easily done. It is perfectly possible to save almost a year in regular college work in three or four summer term sessions.

If you have not already done so, write today to the Elkins Summer School for detailed information as to courses and terms. You can attend school almost as cheap as you can stay at home. Address J. E. Allen, or N Phay Taylor, Manager, Elkins, W. Va.

State Song is Repudiated.

The Dispatch-News of Parkersburg publishes the following

The state board of control will repudiate the $1,000 song and music recently accepted by the sub-committees of the state centennial commission, by refusing to pay the prize money over to the authors. The accepted song was written by S. E. Kiser. The music was by J. N. Iuris.

This information, placed first in the hands of the Dispatch-News, was confirmed by President James S. Lankin, of the board, who was called by the Dispatch-News on the long distance telephone. Mr. Lankin said that the strong sentiment against the committee's selection had been sufficient to convince him that the song would not be generally accepted by the public, that it would therefore fail to fill the purpose and that the people's money would be expended for something which apparently the people did not want.

GEORGE ROBERT LATHAM

George Robert Latham was born in Prince William county, Va. in the sight of the Bull Run battle on March 9, 1832, and was reared on a farm. In November, 1849, he moved his family into West Virginia and settled in Taylor county. In January, 1850, Mr. Latham was stricken with a severe attack of pleurisy followed by general prostration, from which he was totally disabled for far more than three years. In 1852, having regained his health, he taught school in Taylor and Barbour counties, West Virginia, until the winter of 1855 to 1861 he was a citizen of Charleston, where he was married on December 24, 1857, to Caroline, then of Monongalia county. While teaching school he was and during the last week of 1859 was examined and his parents to Tyler county, West Virginia, where he attended the school of that day. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1843, in which year he located in Parkersburg, and began the practice of his profession, in which he soon rose to distinction. In 1855 he represented Wood county in the General Assembly of Virginia, and by successive elections continued in that capacity until 1860. He became an ardent new State man, and was president of the Second Wheeling Convention which assembled June 11, 1861, and which reorganized the Restored Government of Virginia and prepared the way for the formation of West Virginia. He was elected first Governor of West Virginia; was inaugurated June 20, 1863, and by successive elections served until 1869, when he was elected a member of the United States Senate, in which body he served six years. Thereafter he resumed the practice of law in Parkersburg, where he was later elected Judge of the Circuit Court, and served eight years, his term beginning January 1, 1889. He was a leader of men in the time in which he lived, not from the intrigues of craft and cunning, but from an innate and rightful sovereignty of human nature.

The promenade deck is a quarter of a mile long, so long in fact that a person standing at one end could not recognize a person at the other end. Rover steamboats of average size could sail lengthwise through one of the great funnels of the Emperor. One of the novel features of the big vessel is a roomy swimming pool in a beautiful Pompeian hall. Among other luxuries with which the vessel has been fitted are a great entertainment hall two stories high, electric elevators, a completely equipped gymnasium, a "stage" cafe, winter garden and a Ritz-Carlton restaurant. The main dining saloon is 300 feet long.

afforded to every church, pastor and congregation, regardless of creed, cult or belief, color, birth or kind, a splendid opportunity to fervently, patriotically and religiously observe the fiftieth anniversary of the formation of the State of West Virginia and its admission into the Union. Of the thousands of church spheres in this state which lift their heads heavenward in mute appeal of thankfulness to the Maker, it is to be hoped that not one will be vacant and that there will be in each and every one some special form of service in commemoration of this all important event.

We are all too wont to measure the greatness and standing of our Commonwealth by its commercial activity and the busy hum of industry, when in fact, it lies not there, but in the personnel of the citizen himself. What has done more, what can do more to cultivate this refining influence, that results in this especially high standard of citizenship, than the church.

While we have grown commercially while our natural resources have been an important factor in our uplifting has done quite as much, not only education, for a man is never properly educated until he has the proper conception of his moral obligations and responsibilities, as has the church through its auxiliaries.

Thus it is mete that this State should have the special consideration in this connection, of every pastor of every church from Hancock to the mountains, and from the crest of the Alleghenies to the confluence of the waters of the Ohio and Big Sand Rivers.

No better purpose could be served by the churches on this day than by observing it with a strong, patriotic as well as historical thesis, bearing witness to the formation, admission into the Union and the subsequent growth and development of our state and its citizens. The evening could well be occupied with a "Song Service," which would prove a pleasant diversion, and new the patriotic zeal of the people regardless of political affiliations, inspire a new sense of patriotism in the young, give us a better knowledge of the state in which we live, make out of us better citizens, and take the account of some and also prove a pleasant as well as a profitable occasion.
